LINER ASHORE; 200 RESCUED

MANY FROM HUB TAKEN OFF SHIP IN SOUND

Transferred to Steam Lighter, Carried to Providence and Finish Trip by Train

Providence, Sept. 21—Two hundred passengers were rescued from the Colonial liner Lexington which went aground today during a thick fog off Prudence Island in Narragansett Bay.

The passengers were transferred by gangplanks to the single deck of the steam lighter Sagamore. The Sagamore made two trips up and down the bay in bringing the Lexington's passengers to safety.

The Lexington, bound from New York to Providence, struck on the sandy shore of Prudence Island, which is about fifteen miles down Narragansett Bay from this city. Her cargo was lightered and tugs were sent to try and float her at high tide.

Meagre radio reports from the stranded liner said no person on board was hurt when she ran onto the island bar.

Boston-bound passengers on the Lexington took the New Haven train here, after they had been landed at the Point street bridge dock.

ROYAL ITALIAN SISTERS TRY TO END LIFE

PRINCESSES MAFALDA AND GIOVANNA

Paris, Sept. 21.—The mysterious illness of Princess Mafalda of Italy is reported, in diplomatic circles, to have resulted from an atttempt at suicide on the part of Mafalda and her sister, Giovanna.

The suicide pact, it is said, was entered into by the beautiful daughters of the King and Queen of Italy when Premier Mussolini insisted that

3 KILLED AS AUTO HITS FENCE, UPSETS

East Hartford, Conn., Sept. 21.—Three Springfield, Mass., men were killed and three other men seriously injured today in an auto crash on Connecticut boulevard, near the Dry bridge.

The dead are:

PLACIDO LALLI and his brother, ANTONIO, of No. 195 White street, and JAMES BENINATI, No. 33 Crystal avenue, all of Springfield.

The injured:

STEVE O. PAOLINI of Bedford, Indiana, both arms and legs broken; NICHOLAS PLACIDO, No. 39 Wendell avenue, Springfield, both arms and legs broken, and MICHAEL D'LENZIO, No. 39 Windsor street, Hartford, broken arm and leg and internal injuries.

JOHN LEARY of No. 59 Williams street, Hartford, who rushed to the scene of the crash, received a broken arm and leg when he fell from the edge of Dry bridge to the dry creek bed, thirty feet below.

The occupants of the car, which was driven by Paolini, were returning from Hartford to Springfield after a visit at the home of friends.

Behind them was another car filled with their friends. Just as they approached Dry Bridge Paolini lost control of his speeding machine and it crashed into the fence. It tore away fifty feet of the fence, then struck a telephone pole.

ASKS COURT TO KEEP HUBBY FROM GIRL

SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING ON FARES

Mayor Curley today called a special meeting of the City Council for Monday next to take action on the proposed commutation fare increase of railroads serving Massachusetts. The increase sought is for 20 per cent. The question of granting the increase is now before the Department of Public Utilities. Boston's City Council ordinarily meets every Monday but this week adjourned for two weeks.

BURGLAR IS SEIZED WITH RICH LOOT

Special Officer Arthur Brown of the Brighton police today arrested a self-confessed burglar on the lawn of Elmer E. Gray in the Aberdeen section of Brighton.

Brown expects to connect the burglar with more than a score of burglaries in Greater Boston during the Summer.

The man, who gave his name as William T. White of Seattle, Wash., led Officer Brown to a spot on the

SWOPE FIGHTS TO QUASH INDICTMENT

An attempt to free Dr. Dalva H. Swope of Brockton, indicted in connection with the Tyngsboro suitcase murder, was announced by his counsel, Attorney James W. Murdock, today.

Attorney Murdock declared he would file a motion to quash the indictment against Dr. Swope, basing his action largely on the question of jurisdiction.

In other words, he contends the Middlesex County authorities failed to state where his client was guilty of being an accessory before and after the fact of the murder, for which Dr. William M. Robb of the Back Bay was indicted.

Attorney Murdock said the indictment erred in failing to specify where the alleged crime was committed and where the alleged offence of Dr. Swope occurred, particularly as accessory after the fact.

FIRST LOVE INJUNCTION IN STATE

Hello Miss Says She Would "Go Through Hellfire" for Lawrence Merchant

A new method of preventing Romeo husbands from roaming with other women has come to light.

It was put into practice by Attorney Moses Marshal, counsel for Mrs. Sarah Dunn of Lawrence, who charges her husband and Miss Ouida De Lorme, beautiful Lawrence "hello" girl, with being sweethearts.

Charles H. Dunn, the husband, is manager of a Lawrence clothing store.

Through her counsel Mrs. Dunn today filed a petition in Salem court seeking an injunction to prevent her husband and the telephone operator from meeting or communicating.

Simple, isn't it?

If the injunction is issued, the couple must obey its precepts or be guilty of contempt of court.

SUIT IS PRECEDENT.

It is the first time in the history of Massachusetts courts that such a method has been employed by a forsaken wife to prevent her lord and master from meeting the other woman.

Mrs. Dunn declared she took this step only after everything else had failed.

In her petition she said she and Dunn were married in September of 1908, and that he left her in August of 1923, with their ten-year-old son Marcus.

She said their wedded life was

OUIMET TIED AT END OF NINE HOLES

Flossmoor Country Club, Chicago, Ill., Sept. 21.—Francis Ouimet of Boston was even with the Max Marston of Philadelphia at the end of the first nine holes of the morning play in the national amateur semi-finals.

Jesse Sweetser, defending champion, was two up on Bob Gardner over the same stretch. The matches were played in a wild gale, which made the going tough for all four stars.

WARD'S OWN STORY IS TOLD TO JURY

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 21. Walter S. Ward's verbal admission that it was he who shot and killed Clarence S. Peters, nineteen-year-old Haverhill, Mass., sailor, May 15, 1922, was placed today before the jury trying him for first degree murder.

Sheriff George Werner took the stand and repeated Ward's description of the killing of Peters, as Attorney Allen R. Campbell, Ward's counsel, had told it to him in the

DOCTOR SWOPE FIGHTS TO HAVE MURDER INDICTMENT QUASHED

CLAIMS IDENTITY OF VICTIM NOT ESTABLISHED; COURT HEARING DRAWS BIG THRONG

the victim will also be taken up, the defence maintaining there has been lack of sufficient evidence produced to prove the woman to have been Mrs. Alice Wolschendorf of Bridgewater.

Attorney John P. Feeney for Dr. Robb sprung a surprise in Judge McLeod's court by demanding that the evidence that brought about the indictments be presented to a jury.

COURT IS CROWDED

The two prisoners went into court today prepared to sit through a sizzling legal battle. They occupy the big steel prisoner's cage and sit well apart as they are "not speaking."

District Attorney Arthur K. Reading was prepared to offer vigorous opposition to having the indictments dismissed. Judge McLeod postponed the legal fight until today. Several hundred persons were at the courthouse early to gain "ringside seats." Among them were more than 100 attorneys who prophesied today's battle may make legal history.

CLAIMS NO EVIDENCE

Attorney James W. Murdoch, counsel for Dr. Swope, told the court that even if Dr. Swope were acquitted in Middlesex County he would be in danger of prosecution in another county.

The motion to quash the indictment against Dr. Robb filed by Attorneys Feeney and Sheenan claimed:

"That the indictment was illegaly returned by the Grand Jury.

"That no legal evidence of any kind or description was submitted to the Grand Jury.

"That no evidence which in any way tended to show that the defendant was guilty of murder in the first degree or any crime offence was submitted to the Grand Jury.

That the district attorney offered in evidence against Robb statements and declarations of Bowen, which were inadmissible and incompetent. Said testimony was offered through Miss Anna Manning, an employe of the district attorney's office, relative to statements made by Bowen in the absence of the defendant Robb.

"That the witnesses offered no evidence to show that the defendant was guilty of murder in the first degree or any crime.

"That the Grand Jury made no investigation of the case and returned an indictment of murder in the first degree, basing the same solely on the incompetent and inadmissible statements of persons who appeared for the Commonwealth and that all said statements were improperly made before the Grand Jury."

Dissected Leg Shown at Trial of Army Doctor

Washington, Sept. 21.—A human leg, bisected with a saw, preserved in alcohol and bear a tatooed hand holding by the neck a hissing rattlesnake, gave a Sherlock Holmes touch to the courtmartial of Major George W. Cook, Medical Corps, United States Army, for alleged malpractice.

Private Guy Pendleton, 23, of South Charleston, W. Va., had both legs amputated at Fort Eustis, Va., under the charge of Cook, after a motorcycle crash. It is claimed the loss of the legs was unnecessary.

PRINCESSES IN DEATH PACT

Princess Mafalda become the bride of Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium.

King Victor Emmanuel, whose democratic ideas have endeared him to the hearts of his countrymen, has always championed the wishes of his daughters that they be allowed to select their own husbands among their own people. The wedding of Princess Yolanda to the Count Calvi di Bergola, a relatively obscure and poor Italian, was in keeping with the wishes of her royal parents that the girls remain in their native land.

Then came the dramatic entrance of Mussolini into Italian affairs and usurpation of the governing powers. Mussolini became so powerful that he not only assumed control of the political destinies of the country but took it upon himself to arrange marriages for the Italian princesses it is said, that would cement important friendship for his government with those of other nations of Europe.

The sisters Mafalda and Giovanna are highly temperamental and were extremely bitter about the turn of affairs. When the engagement of Mafalda and the Crown Prince Leopold was first rumored, it is said that Mafalda hurried to her sister Yolanda for consolation and assistance.

Princess Yolanda is said to have attempted to intercede for Mafalda and was even said to have enlisted her efforts in behalf of a young Italian in whom she had hoped to interest Mafalda.

Apparently the pleas of Yolanda fell on deaf ears and the younger sisters brooded over the outlook. They felt that there was no escape from distasteful marriages without causing great embarrassment to their royal father.

SEIZE BURGLAR AND RICH LOOT

Gray lawn, at No. 1954 Commonwealth avenue, where he had a $300 fur and seven gallons of whiskey cached.

He was wearing a suit taken from the Gray home, and a ring taken from the home of George H. Books, [illegible] Commonwealth avenue.

He said he had visited the cache the day previous and sold thirty-seven quarts of Gray's liquors to a taxicab driver.

CAUGHT VISITING CACHE

Mr. Gray, who is living at Winthrop for the Summer, visited his home yesterday and found that it had been ransacked. Special Officer Brown was detailed to the case, and decided that the house had been entered more than once, probably by the same thief.

He hid on the lawn last night and, shortly after midnight, saw White approaching the liquor cache in the shrubbery.

White told the officer he was a professional wrestler and warned Brown not to put his hands on him. Brown had no difficulty in handcuffing him, however.

White later confessed to having entered Gray's house three times, and to entering two other houses on Commonwealth avenue, several in Newton and others that he could not locate, in all of which he took valuables.

LIST OF GIRLS' NAMES

In White's room on Ivy street furs, jewelry and other foot from some of the richest homes in Boston were found.

Among the loot was a stocking almost filled with stickpins of every description, many of which were valuable. Pawn tickets were also found, although White told the police it was not his practice to pawn stolen articles, but to peddle them on the streets by telling hard luck stories.

He said he had spent most of his time in jail since he was eleven years old—he is now twenty-three—and freely told of his methods of burglary and disposal of his loot.

He will be arraigned in the Brighton Court tomorrow.

In his possession was a note book containing names of girls from Seattle to Halifax, with streets and telephone numbers. Police say the book contained hundreds of these names.

WARD'S STORY TOLD TO JURY

sheriff's home in the presence of Ward and others the night of May 22, when Ward surrendered.

The witness said Mr. Campbell described a meeting between Ward and three men described as Charlie Rose, Jack Rogers and "Pete" (Peters) on the White Plains road the night of the slaying.

The three men were in a large automobile and Ward was in his coupe. "Pete" got into the small car with Ward and, drawing a pistol, commanded him to drive on, according to the story. The big car followed.

STORY OF GUN FIGHT.

When they reached the spot where Peters' body was later found, Ward, still covered, was ordered to get out. White "Pete" was opening the door, Ward reached for his revolver and "Pete" responded by firing at him, the bullet passing through the open window of Ward's car. Ward then reached out, grabbed the hand in which "Pete" held his gun and shot him.

The other two men fired at Ward and drove away. Ward returned the shots of the other men and thought he hit one of them, his story related. Ward picked up Peters' gun before he left the spot, he said.

CHARGED BLACKMAIL.

Sheriff Werner said he had a later conversation with Ward in which Ward referred to the men he had met on the night of the shooting as blackmailers and said he had met them in Rye several nights previously.

The witness said the gun Ward had given him as the one used by Peters had one exploded cartridge in it and that the other chambers were filled.

Werner said he had not suspected Ward before he surrendered and had obtained no clew to the identity of the slayer.

Coroner Edward T. Fitzgerald of Westchester County told of an alleged conversation he had with Ward on May 22, 1922, following Peters' death.

"I was in the district attorney's office on the morning of May 22, 1922, when Ward was there," Fitzgerald testified.

"I said to Ward: 'You are lucky they didn't get you,' and he said: 'Yes. I may not be so luckly the next time.' ("They" referred to Peters and the mystery men in the case, "Jack" Rogers and "Charlie" Ross.)

RULED OUT BY COURT.

Questions as to the state of mind of Ward during the conversation and as to whom was mean by "they" were ruled out by the court.

"Then the district attorney turned to Ward and said: 'What kind of a gun did you use?' and Ward answered, 'A Colt .38.'

"Mr. Campbell, Ward's lawyer, came over to me and asked if we were talking to Ward and we said no more."

Fitzgerald's examination was preliminary to introduction of testimony by other witnesses who claimed to have heard Ward's verbal admission.

Frank Cody, New Rochelle police chief, who served under Ward, when the latter was police commissioner in May, 1922—the time of Peters' death—was recalled for cross-examination by Allen R. Campbell, attorney for the defence.

Campbell examined Cody on his direct testimony regarding two revolvers that he gave Ward in 1920 and 1921.

GUN AN OLD ONE

Cody had identified a .38 calibre Colt automatic—the one Ward says he used when he shot Peters—as the one he gave Ward in December, 1921. Cody said the other pistol—a .32 calibre Smith and Wesson regulation revolver, said by Ward to have been Peters' weapon, "looked exactly like one he had previously given Ward."

Cody was asked by Attorney Campbell for the defense where he had obtained the pistol he gave to Ward. He said he took it from a safe in which there were a number of old pistols. The witness said he had never seen the pistol before and admitted he had never had an opportunity to become familiar with its appearance.

Cody testified that before he took the stand yesterday Deputy Attorney-General Chambers, who is conducting the prosecution, had asked him if he could not make more positive his identification of the pistol.

Ward, in claiming he shot Peters in self-defense, produced the pistol in question as one held by Peters in his hand at the time of the shooting.

Cody said he had made every effort to trace the number and source of the gun he had given Ward, but without success.

HAS SHOCK AS HE TURNS ON GAS; DIES

Norwich, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Charles Cox, aged ninety-three, was found dead on the floor of his kitchen today from asphyxiation. Investigation indicated that he had suffered a paralytic shock, just as he turned on the gas.

Cop's Paralysis Is Cured by Saving Drowning Boy

New York, Sept. 21.—Harbor Patrolman Lewis E. Odell, who patrols the waters of New Rochelle harbor and Echo Bay, was cured of paralysis of his left arm by saving his grandson from drowning.

He had been on sick leave three weeks, when his six-year-old grandson fell off the pier at Glen Island.

"When I heard the lad's cries," said he, "I forgot all about my paralyzed arm and now it's all right."

PLEADS WITH GIRL.

On July 30 last, Mrs. Dunn charges there was a conference between herself, Miss DeLorme and Dunn. Mrs. Dunn wept and pleaded with the telephone operator for the return of her husband, but without avail.

The petition was the result, and a hearing probably will be granted at Salem on September 26.

200,000 RAIL MEN VOTE ON WAGE JUMP

More than 200,000 trainmen and conductors employed on the railroads of the country are now taking a referendum vote on the question of approving or disapproving increases in wages recommended by the general chairman of the Eastern, Western and Southern systems for presentation to the railroad executives later. The ballot must be in the hands of the grand lodge officers and other executive committees at Cleveland for tabulation not later than Sept. 25.

The agreement under which the members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railroad Conductors, two of the "Big Four," are now working expires on September 30.

Rome Sounds New en the Shofar Blows
his Land, This Realm" ography From the Air
Current Events

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright. 1923 Star Co.

IN ROME AND ALL over Italy, the people are celebrating the anniversary of Rome's founding. The story of Romulus and Remus, pugnacious little boys, suckled and raised by a she-wolf, is told again to all the pugnacious, energetic little sons of modern Italy. The great men of Rome are extolled to the skies, and Mussolini, believed to combine in his person Cicero and Caesar with Augustus and Marcus Aurelius, is praised even higher than the skies.

Best wishes from all over the world for the new Italy, worthy daughter of ancient Rome. May all her hopes be realized and all her past glories excelled.

"THE FOUNDING OF ROME." How far back it to us that buy "early Amer- hings and call eighteenth trinkets "antique." But w is ancient Rome, com- ith Yom Kippur, the Day of ment, observed by our Jew- thers yesterday. When the ar ancient sacred trumpet, was blown at sundown all Israel heard the sound repeated every year, without interruption, for fifty-six centuries. There you have age and continuity. "Hear, Israel, the Lord is Thy God, the Lord is One." That cry had been heard for ages, when Rome's seven hills were bare, before the oldest stones of the old Roman ruin had been cut from the quarry.

FROM JEWS, CHRISTIANS borrowed their idea of one God. Among Jews they found Him whom they call the Saviour of the world. Is it not about time for Christians, if they take their religion seriously, to cease persecution of Jews among barbarous Christians, and discrimination against Jews among so-called enlightened Christians?

THERE'S A LITTLE earthquake tremor in England, just enough to rattle windows and remind us that even "this land, this realm, this England," with her chalk cliffs, built of little marine animals and pushed up out of the sea by Nature's power, might be pushed down by the same power. Forbid it, kind Heaven. The earth needs British common-sense, British ability to colonize, while leaving native populations their liberty. And the earth needs the example of democracy set by the British government that Montesquieu, more than 200 years ago, justly called the best government in the world.

IN A FORMAL letter from Prime Minister Yamamoto, Japan thanks the American government and people for their aid in the earthquake. That is the sort of message that should pass from one nation to another, rather than sending a war message, an ultimatum, or a request

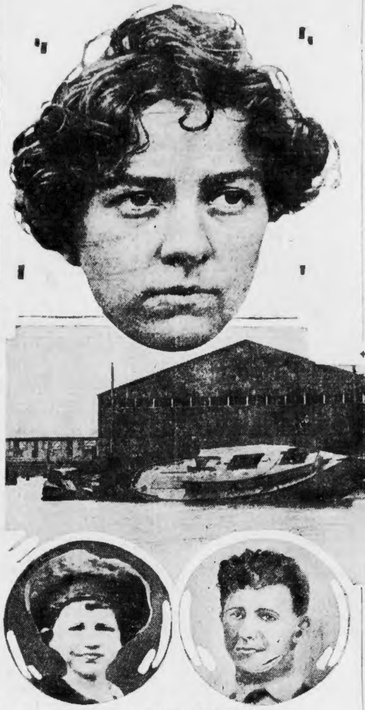
FIND CLOTHES OF VET NEAR WATER



MISSING MAN AND FAMILY

James P. Walsh of East Braintree, left his home six weeks ago to go to a hospital. His clothes, tied in a bundle, have just been found at Quincy Point. His wife believes he is not dead but is wandering about. Above, Mrs. Birdie Walsh, wife of missing man. In center, Quincy point; cross showing where the clothes were found. Below (left), Edmund Walsh, 5-year-old son, and (right), James P. Walsh, the missing man.

WIFE BELIEVES MISSING VET IS WANDERING

James P. Walsh, missing war veteran of East Braintree, is alive, but probably wandering, says his wife, Mrs. Birdie Walsh, whom he married in Aldershot, Eng., in 1914.

Mrs. Walsh and her five-year-old son, Edmund, live at No. 26 May street, East Braintree. Walsh's clothes were found at the foot of River street, Quincy Point.

"Our marriage was the culmination of a romance," said the wife today. "I was only eighteen, an English girl, and he was an American, just back from service in India with the British army.

"Although he was only six years older, the difference in our ages was a cause of trouble from the beginning. My husband had fits of temper whenever I went out with neighbors or friends.

"He left home six weeks ago, and said he was going to a hospital because of trouble with his head. He said that the heat in India had affected it. Then he came back and told me he had undergone an operation.

"I think he may be wandering somewhere. A bath towel was found with his clothing. He often went swimming.

"Since he left I have supported myself by taking in boarders. He was a pipe fitter at Fore River.

LOSES CHILDREN MOTHER WEEPS IN COURTHOUSE

A little mother fell on her knees today in the corridors of Probate Court, clasped her children in her arms and wept violently.

An attorney endeavored to calm her.

She was Marie T. Becker, of No. 34 Concord square, South End.

She had gone into court seeking separate support from her husband, Fred J. Becker, living with his mother at No. 185 Heath street, Roxbury. She testified she left her husband because he drank and beat her. This the husband denied and named William Williams, a boarder with the girl wife's mother as the cause of the marital estrangement. Williams entered a denial.

The two children, Carl, seven years old, and Dorothy, four, sat by mystified.

Judge Dolan suddenly ruled the mother was apart from her husband for no justifiable cause and gave the children to the father.

CORFU EVACUATION BEGUN BY ITALIANS

London, Sept. 21 (I.N.S.).—Preliminary steps for evacuation of Corfu were begun by the Italians today, said a Central News dispatch from Athens. Artillery brigades were embarked upon Italian transports and munitions were removed to the wharves for shipment.

PHONE SERVICE IS HAMPERED BY RAIN

The rain, coupled with a hole in a telephone cable covering, hampered service in Haymarket exchange for six hours today. The water, rushing into a manhole on Beacon street delayed service at the State House.

Clerk of House Dead

Washington, Sept. 21 (I.N.S.).—John H. Hollingsworth, chief clerk of the House of Representatives, died today at his home in Riverdale, Md. He had been an employe at the Capitol for 34 years, coming here from Richland, Mo., as a page.

PICTURES AND NEWS

If you will glance through your Boston American you will discover that every piece of important news is accompanied by actual pictures taken on the spot, at the time of the occurrence; photographed, shipped, developed and printed at incredible speed. We cite, for instance, the funeral of the late President Harding, the wrecking of destroyers on the Pacific Coast and the recent Dempsey-Firpo Fight. Boston American readers have picture advantages that few newspapers even attempt to duplicate.

SEEK TO CUT COST OF WAR HOSPITALS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Careful inspection of Veterans Bureau Hospital costs is being made by Director Hines to determine how they can be reduced. At present, it costs $5.78 per day per man for general hospital treatment, $3.30 for tubercular treatment, and $3.73 for neuropsychiatric hospitalization. Of this sum 53 cents is expended from every dollar for salaries, 27 cents for food, 7 cents for material and supplies and the remainder for such items as fuel, light and rent.

WARN WALTON OF 'PERIL' IN KLAN WAR

Oklahoma City, Sept. 21.—The lower house of the Legislature will convene at noon Wednesday to consider charges that Governor J. C. Walton has set at naught constitutional government in his Ku Klux Klan war and if the Governor interferes with the meeting he "acts at his peril."

This was the declaration today of legislators who will seek the executive's impeachment.

Walton's legislative enemies were confident that he would not carry out his threat to jail the House members if they attempted to assemble.

Since voicing his threat some of the Governor's legal advisers have urged him to permit the session, as they declare it would be illegal and without effect. However, the final word remains to be spoken and the threat has not yet been withdrawn.

Walton to Fight Klan "to Finish," He Declares

By W. BOYD GATEWOOD
Universal Service.
(Copyright, 1923.)

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 21.—Governor J. C. Walton addressed "to the citizens of Oklahoma and to the American people" a statement that "he has crossed the Rubicon" in his war against the invisible empire in Oklahoma and from this hour on "it was a fight to the finish."

Governor Walton supplemented his declaration with excerpts of testimony taken by the military court of inquiry from N. C. Jewett, Grand Dragon of the Klan, Oklahoma Realm; Judge Clark, dean of the Oklahoma judiciary; Sheriff Thomas Cavnar, of Oklahoma City, and County Attorney Wright.

It was the first intimation that the military court had questioned the grand dragon, the sheriff and Judge Clark. It is shown by their own admission that they are or were members of the Ku Klux Klan.

The statement which prefaces the transcript of evidence concludes with the passage that "Jewett and his invisible empire shall not pass in this State. If necessary, I shall arm every man in the State who is opposed to this empire."

For the first time in the "war" the Governor shows anxiety over finances. He calls upon "the people who believe in a representative form of government to immediately assist financially."

Voluntary remittances are sought by the Governor, and their remittance to Mrs. Aldrich Blake of Oklahoma City is directed.

"The courts of thsi State are open and will remain open," he proclaims.

Military reinforcements came to the Capital to strengthen the "ring of steel" which the Governor has drawn around the State House through his power as commander of the military during martial law.

A detachment of the 158th Field Artillery arrived from the armory at Kingfisher, Okla. Other troops are expected within several hours.

Of the impeachment program Governor Walton says:

"It is a direct stroke of the Ku Klux Klan to hamper and obstruct me in my present movement against the invisible empire and its many crimes committed in this State.

"Under our constitution it is unlawful for the Legislature to assemble in extraordinary session without the request of the Governor."

MRS. SLOAN LOSES IF SHE WEDS

Maker of Horse Liniment, Husband Started Poor and Left Million Dollars

"Good for man or beast" was the slogan Earl S. Sloan coined for a horse medicine he originated years ago.

He was born a poor boy. He died a millionaire.

In his will just probated he left a trust fund giving his 70-year-old widow Bertha P. Sloan the interest on $260,000 a year "if she did not remarry." In the event she went to the altar again the fund was to be cut to the interest on $50,000 per year.

A reporter for the AMERICAN was ushered into the presence of Mrs. Sloan at her mansion in West Roxbury today. It sets in the centre of a vast estate, the main gate of which is at No. 277 Cottage avenue.

On the lawns flocks of white turkeys roamed in a manner bespeaking fowl aristocracy.

"I am deeply pained at the wording of the doctor's will," said Mrs. Sloan. "I can't understand him ever thinking for an instant that I would marry again or even look at another man. He was my only love. I could never find another man who would compare with him. Why, this would give anyone cause to think I was young and frivolous."

Mrs. Sloan is tall and stately. Her hair is snow white. She received the reporter in the morocco leathered library. She was garbed in black satin with a simple bit of Irish lace at her throat.

"I will go to North Carolina when the snow flies," she added. "I have been a virtual prisoner here for almost three years, all during the doctor's illness. I was in constant attendance."

In addition to the trust fund, the linament man left his widow an estate at New Bern, North Carolina. The famous liniment, the widow said today, came about by accident.

"The doctor," she said, "was a horse trader in Ohio, where he was born. He used to bring shipments of horses East. Often they had leg ailments in the cattle cars. The doctor mixed a liniment which he rubbed upon their limbs. That concoction became the Sloan's Liniment."

MALDEN GIRL WEDS AFTER ELOPEMENT

Mrs. P. J. Wiers

The elopement of Miss Florence F. Slack, daughter of Mrs. Florence Slack, No. 24 Maple street, Malden, and Peter J. Wiers, No. 24 Otis street, Melrose, became known today when the young couple returned from a vacation in New York and in the White Mountains.

The couple were married in Watertown by the Rev. F. D. Taylor, August 31, the day they left for their vacations. They will reside in Melrose.

Mrs. Wiers is a well-known singer and social worker in Malden, where she is popular with the younger set. She is a member of numerous clubs, and is prominent in church work.

"TOM" TAGGART ILL AT HYANNIS HOME

Hyannis, Sept. 21.—Thomas Taggart, the widely known Democratic boss of Indiana, who was once chairman of the National Committee of his party, represented his State in the National Senate and was three times Mayor of Indianapolis, was attacked by hemorrhages at his Summer home at Hyannisport and is in a serious condition. His children have been summoned to his bedside. Mrs. Taggart and two physicians are in constant attendance upon him. He will probably be taken to Boston today.

CRACK SAFE IN SUMMER ST. STORE

Burglars Frightened Away by Porter Before They Can Complete Robbery

Safe crackers at work in the office of the Summer street store of Cobb, Bates & Yerxa early today were frightened into abandoning their work and making an escape into Chauncy street by the transom over the shipping room door, when John Jeffries, colored porter, reported for work.

The burglars had previously tapped the cash register of George F. Slosson's billiard room at No. 68 Summer street, but found it empty.

The speeding thieves abandoned their tools—a three-section jimmy, bits and bit stock, a flashlight and other instruments of the trade. The hinges on the safe door had been jimmied off.

Town Plays Safe; Names Al Jolson for 'Constabule'

Scarsdale, N. Y., Sept. 21 (By Universal Service).—Burglars, second-story workers and bandits in general, regardless of class or previous condition of servitude, will be wise to give Scarsdale a wide berth if Al Jolson, comedian, accepts the office of constable tendered to him by local political friends.

In glowing resolutions, Jolson's name has been placed on the Scarsdale Republican committee for endorsement.

But while his friends are enthusiastic, Al fights shy of the honor that would be thrust upon him.

HOME OWNERSHIP TAKES DROP HERE

Washington, Sept. 21.—The percentage of home ownership in Boston did not hold its own in the period from 1900 to 1920, but decreased four-tenths of one per cent., according to figures contained in "How to Own Your Home," a publication just issued by the division of building and housing of the Department of Commerce, for the aid of those who desire information dealing with such problems as financing, general property considerations, house plans, and expenses of home ownership.

B. & M. Announces Increase in New Hampshire; Flood of Protests Grows

The proposed increase in fares on local railroads has spread to New Hampshire. Notice of an increase of 20 per cent. in the 60 and 45-ride monthly commutation tickets has been filed with the Public Service Commission by the Boston & Maine.

The commission announced today it would give until October 11 for the filing of objections to the increase. The 45 ride tickets are for school children.

Protests from other parts of New England, notably Massachusetts, continued to roll in today. It was announced that hearings by the Massachusetts Department of Public Uti

FRANCE TO PAY $25,000,000 JAP LOAN

Tokio, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—France intends to pay Japan in cash fifty million yen ($25,000,000) in Treasury notes due November 22, Paul Claudel, the French ambassador, informed the Yokohama Specie Bank today.

Late reports from Tottori say that five hundred houses were destroyed in the recent flood there, but do not mention the fate of the 5,000 persons, whom a previous despatch from Yokohama reported missing.

General Fukuda has been succeeded as commander of the zone of martial law by General Yamanashi, ex-minister of war. The commander of the gendarmerie also was relieved of his post. These changes are reported due to the Cabinet's dissatisfaction with the manner in which the military administration has been carried on since the earthquake.

SAUGUS MAN HELD BY PORTLAND COPS

Saugus police were notified today that Carl Putnam of that town, who has been summoned to appear Saturday in the Saugus court in answer to a liquor charge, is being held by the Portland, Me., authorities on a rum running charge.

Putnam was trapped in South Portland by officers pursuing him in an automobile when he drove his machine into a dark-end street. He was identified by the summons to the Saugus court, which he had in his pocket.

ilies would take place about the middle of October.

The city councils of Lawrence and Lynn have expressed their intention to attend the hearing, after going on record as protesting against the proposed increases.

A communication from City Clerk Joseph W. Atwill of Lynn stated the city council of that city had appointed a committee consisting of Mayor Harland A. McPhetres and members of the council to attend the hearings.

The Lawrence city council voted to attend, with the city solicitor, any hearing that may be given, taking action at the suggestion of Alderman Peter Carr.

Among other protesants are the selectmen of Framingham, the Weymouth Heights Club, fifty six commutors between Fall River and Newport, and the communities of Salem, Newton, Canton, Cohasset, Hingham, Rockland Greenbush, Brookside, Quincy, Sharon, Wakefield, East Bridgewater and Milford.

Protests from many individual commuters have also been received, many of them declaring that because of the high price of necessities they could not afford to pay the increased fares.

Several young women living in cities along the New Haven lines have assumed thel eadership in a fight against increased rates, and have notified passengers on trains that a meeting will be held in Hartford September 24 to take action against the increase.

The increase of twelve-ride tickets will probably increase the earnings of the roads about $4,000,000 each year, it has been estimated. The proposed advances upon sixty-ride tickets and up on 45-ride tickets will bring in several more millions.

The railroads instituted a schedule of rates for commutation service within the fifteen-mile radius of terminal stations in 1913, but the Public Utilities Department approved an increase over these rates about four years ago.

If the department does not act within 30 days to suspend the new commutation schedule rates, the law says that it shall become effective immediately. The department, however, has not ordered a suspension pending an inquiry. The suspension cannot last longer than 10 months from the time the new rates would be effective.

When, or if the department should disapprove the rates, it must take upon itself the task of determining just what the rates should be, and the railroads, on order, will be forced to put them into effect.

MAINE MILLS GO ON FOUR-DAY SCHEDULE

Sanford, Me., Sept. 21.—The Sanford Worsted Company's mills, employing about 2,000, went on a four-day schedule today for an indefinite period, because of the slack demand for Palm Beach cloth which they manufacture. These are located here and at Springvale, Waterboro and Kennebunk.

The Sanford Mills Corporation's 2,000 employees are working overtime on car plush and upholstery for automobiles.

FILM PRODUCER WORKED FAST TO WED DIVORCEE

Hollywood, Calif., Sept. 21—Romance, too, works in mysterious ways, its wonders to perform.

Today young Mrs. Rose Barker Cromwell is Mrs. Harry Cohn, wife of one of the film colony's active producers. Nine months ago she was the center of divorce proceedings which gave White Plains and New York City subject for conversation for many days. Cohn was named by Mrs. Cromwell's elderly and extremely wealthy husband as co-respondent.

How she happened to marry again will be recorded as an interesting episode of romance.

It became necessary for Cohn to go to court as a witness in a civil action. Enroute from Hollywood to the Los Angeles courthouse he stopped his automobile at the Ambassador Hotel where Mrs. Cromwell has been living for several months.

"Want to take a ride down town?" Cohn asked.

"Sure," she answered.

As the car drew up to the courthouse Mrs. Cromwell said:

"This is the place where people get marriage licenses, isn't it?"

"Yes, it is," smiled Cohn. He looked expectantly at her and she looked earnestly at him.

A dramatic pause.

"Will you?" he begged.

Another dramatic pause.

"If you want me to," she said, shyly.

So they went in, obtained their marriage license from Miss Rosamonde Rice, the license clerk, and twenty minutes later were made man and wife by Superior Court Judge John W. Summerfield, sometimes known as the "divorce judge" because of the many divorce suits he tries.

BROOKSIDE STORES

"What Cash and Carry" Means to You in Quality and Money Saved

WOULD you walk a block, more or less, to save a dollar, more or less? Russell Sage walked farther to save a carfare. The walk gave him the exercise he needed. He lived to a ripe old age—left millions for his wife to give to charity.

"Cash and Carry" is the saving way to buy groceries. You walk or drive to a BROOKSIDE STORE. You select what you want. You see it. You pay cash for it. You carry it away. You get personally acquainted with the BROOKSIDE System and the salespeople who serve you. Mutual understanding is established. Telephones and delivery service and charge accounts can never accomplish that—quite as well.

And charge accounts — and delivery service—require a lot of clerical work and wages. WHICH MUST BE PAID FOR—BY YOU. You'll save many a dollar in a month by making it a habit to visit a BROOKSIDE STORE in person—by paying cash — by carrying your purchases away with you, either under your arm or in your automobile.

More than 400 BROOKSIDE STORES operate as a unit — buy in enormous quantities as a unit — manage themselves as a unit—and pass along to customers all the price savings incident to such a wasteless method of doing business. Tea, coffee, butter, eggs, milk, cream, flour, biscuits, cheese, potatoes, canned foods — everything you need in fine groceries — you'll find at a BROOKSIDE STORE.

Try it a week. Then decide for yourself about the weeks to follow.

COOLIDGE DROPS HARDING'S R. R. COMBINE PLAN

Washington, Sept. 21 (Copyright 1923 by I. N. S.)—President Coolidge has virtually decided to abandon one of the big policies of the late President Harding—that of compelling the railroads of the country to consolidate into regional systems.

It is the first of the late President's major policies to go into the discard under the new administration.

Regional consolidation was the remedy for the railroad problem which Mr. Harding and Senator Cummins, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee, favored above all others. It furnished the keynote for all of the late President's utterances on transportation matters during his fatal Western trip.

As a result, however, of the conferences with groups of railroad officials, Congressmen and others which the new President has held since taking up his duties, it now appears extremely unlikely that Congress will be asked to pass upon the plan at all, or if it is brought up, it will not be pushed.

Various reasons are assigned for the abandonment of the proposal.

1—The strong opposition of most of the railroads themselves.

2—The even more strenuous opposition of the so-called La Follette group in the new Congress, shared, too, by many of the more conservative Western Senators.

3—The feeling on the part of President Coolidge and some of his advisers that the best thing to do with the railroads at this time is go slow in the matter of legislation.

Voluntary consolidation is now permitted under the transportation act for those roads that want it.

PORTUGUESE MAY FOLLOW SPAIN'S LEAD

London, Sept. 21 (I.N.S.)—It was reported in diplomatic circles today that the success of the Spanish military revolution may lead to a similar movement in Portugal, where there has been deep unrest for a year.

The Lisbon government is understood to be taking precautions against an uprising.

Reports from Portugal today said the country was quiet.

Burrages Important Members of 'Who's News Along North Shore'

By BETTY ALDEN

FOR some reason or other there's always a particularly rose-glowish halo about a romance of the North vs. South. So it was when a number of years ago popular Russell Burrage wooed and won Miss Katherine Baxter, daughter of the Governor of Tennessee.

The then Miss Baxter was noted as one of the beauties of the South—her home was in Knoxville—so that at the time of the wedding more than the usual interest was evinced.

Shortly before announcement of the engagement was made the lovely Southern girl came up "N'oth" for a visit with the Burrages. During her stay she attended the wedding of her fiance's brother, Francis Burrage, to Miss Gay, and even the most critical eyes focused upon her in the church were more than favorably impressed.

Two days after the betrothal was made known, young Burrage narrowly escaped death when the motor in which he was riding missed being hit by a fast-moving freight train by a fraction of an inch. The following April the wedding of the young Bostonian and the Southern girl was solemnized in New York at the Church of the Heavenly Rest.

The Burrages make their home the year round at Beverly Farms, where their place is known as "Brookwood Farm." The family play a prominent part in the life of the Farms colony, wherefore we add them to our "Who's News Along the North Shore."

Mr. Burrage, who plays on the Myopia polo team, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Burrage, the former being known as "the richest man in New England." The Burrages have two little daughters, Katherine and Alice, and a five-year-old son named after his pater.

MRS. QUINCY A. SHAW, 2D

THOSE who have been invited are anticipating very keenly the dance which Mr. and Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, 2d (Naneen Mitchell) are giving a week from tonight at their Pride's Crossing home, "The Commons."

The affair is in honor of that exotic-looking belle, "Sister" Caswell, who, on the following day will become the bride of Mrs. Shaw's brother, John Mitchell.

The ceremony will take place at 3:30 o'clock at St. John's Church, Beverly Farms, with a reception to follow at the Caswell place at the Farms.

DEVOTED to their golf are Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Knowles (Amy Thorpe), who live out Cambridge way. Recently the Knowles were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hopkinson of Manchester-by-the-Sea. Which reminds me that Mrs. Knowles has just been nominated for the presidency of the Vincent Club.

TALL and boyish-looking Peggy Porter, daughter of the Charles Allen Porters of Beacon, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Bigelow (Rose Fessenden), who are for the Summer at the Fessenden place on Coolidge Point, Manchester.

DEATH TOLL IN "GAS" SAVING TEST NOW 4

Washington, Sept. 21.—The four Bureau of Standards experts who lost their lives in a laboratory explosion and the five others who were injured had just completed experiments which are expected to save 600,000,000 gallons of gasoline a year.

In the study of evaporation, bureau officials said today, the laboratory force had discovered methods for preventing huge waste from this cause and had prepared full charts of great economic value. The experiments had been proceeding for several months, it was said, and had just reached the stage of a final report.

Another task recently undertaken by the victims of the explosion was the testing of the engines of the navy airship ZR-1.

L. L. Lauer of New Salem, Ohio, who was instantly killed in the explosion, together with Urban J. Cook of Cincinnati, James E. Kendig of Salunga, Pa., and Stephen M. Lee of New London, Conn., who died later, had been in active research work for some time.

"MISS BOSTON" GUEST AT EXTRAVAGANZA

Miss Margaret L. Black of Dorchester, who recently attended the Atlantic City pageant as "Miss Boston"—her reward for winning the Boston American's most charming girl tournament—will make her first public appearance tonight in the Hub since returning home. She is to appear as a special guest at the aquatic extravaganza of South Boston Yacht Club at City Point and will be introduced to the assembled gathering.

Margaret Black

Other features at tonight's affair in South Boston include high diving from the tower of the Yacht Club by Miss Agnes Mack, who thrilled thousands at the recent Boston American swimming carnival in Charles River. Miss Dora Willard, another of the feature divers of the American's carnival, will also perform. The extravaganza will continue tomorrow night.

MacMILLAN SENDS RADIO TO HIS SISTER

Freeport, Me., Sept. 21.—Mrs. Letitia Fogg, sister of Captain Donald MacMillan, the Arctic explorer, received a radiogram from her brother by way of Prince Rupert, B. C. The message stated that the party had a fine trip north in the Bowdoin and that they arrived at Etah August 17.

They are now stationed ten miles north of Etah. He stated that there was a foot of snow on the ground and that all the boys were well.

ATOMIC ENERGY NOT AVAILABLE FOR USE

London, Sept. 21—The attempt made by thousands of scientists to obtain cheap energy from atoms, is a failure, according to Professor H. L. Callendar, head of the physics department of the Imperial College of Science, London University.

"The longer we have experimented the more hopeless has become the quest," he said. "The search for cheap energy will benefit mankind through increasing our knowledge of the nature of the atom, but it is improbable that it will ever accomplish its direct object."

UNDERWOOD HAS TURNED ON LEAGUE

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Senator Oscar W. Underwood, Alabama's candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, is no longer a strong advocate of the League of Nations, he is credited today as saying.

To the Senator, once an eloquent advocate [illegible] of the League, who was in Chicago on his way to Washington from a fishing vacation at Eagle River, Wis., was attributed the following statement:

"I am no longer a strong advocate of the League of Nations. My original views are well known. On my trip abroad I saw the League at work. Developments then and subsequently have changed my attitude. The failure of League to function in the dispute between Italy and Greece had much to do with the change."

GAS STATION AT BRIGHTON VETS' PLOT OPPOSED

Citizens of Brighton, under the leadership of Judge Thomas H. Connolly of the Brighton District Court, Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson, District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien and members of the Brighton post of the American Legion, are stirred in protest over the establishment of a gasoline service station within twenty-five yards of the memorial to Brighton's dead in the World War.

The memorial was erected by the people and dedicated to the men who died for their country.

It was unveiled last Memorial Day.

It is proposed to erect the service station on a vacant lot bounded by Cambridge, Henshaw and Elko streets, opposite the Court House. Judge Connolly and his associated protestants will appear before the Street Commissioners at City Hall on Monday and endeavor to show that the service station would constitute a nuisance on the site selected, and would serve no good purpose, as motorists can be supplied at existing stations nearby.

PEGGY JOYCE PROVES SHE'S NO PIKER

PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE

New York, Sept. 21.—James Flatley, a doorman at the Earl Carroll Theatre, is $1,000 richer by reason of having been the fortunate finder of Peggy Hopkins Joyce's $10,000 watch. He already has $500 of it and would have had the other $500 but for the fact that $500 was all the loose change Miss Joyce had when she was notified and went to the theatre to get the timepiece, which is only as big as a dime and has a six carat diamond in the back, she said.

Miss Joyce, who is playing the star part in "Vanities of 1923," wore the watch to the theatre Tuesday night, she said. As she entered her dressing room her maid noticed the timepiece was missing. Miss Joyce had her chauffeur search her automobile, and then set stage hands, doormen and police searching for it, offering $1,000 reward for its recovery.

Flatley searched all night, and after daylight found it in the street outside the stage door.

He gave the money to his wife to start a bank account.

$15,000,000 FOR CONNECTICUT ROADS

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 21.—For work on Connecticut highways the next two years $15,000,000 will be available according to estimates made public today by the State Highway Commissioner. Of this total about $10,000,000 will come from sources within the motor vehicle department such as registrations, licenses, fines and gasoline tax. The last named source is expected to yield $2,000,000.

'GHOSTS' SCARE PATIENTS IN MALDEN

Ghosts! Whoo-o-o-o!

So said the nurses and patients of the Malden Hospital until—but that is ahead of the story.

For several nights, patients and nurses in the hospital have been frightened by strange noises, seeming to be in every room of the hospital at the same time.

A low moaning, a squeal, then a sound like the scampering of tiny feet over a tin roof. Nowhere. Everywhere. It stopped as suddenly as it began. Then started again. Always the same noises in the same sequence.

The Malden Hospital is built on the top of Murray Hill, Malden. The trees of the large Middlesex Fells reservation come up the hill almost to the hospital grounds. St. Mary's cemetery rests peacefully in the small valley at the foot of the hill.

Efforts to trap the "ghost" were unsuccessful. No one seemed to know where it had made its lair. Sometimes it was heard during the day. Late in the evening and during the night its visits were more frequent.

Three reserve officers under the leadership of Patrolman Devlin were sent from the Malden police to trace the nocturnal visitor to its lair.

Devlin traced the "spook" to a large sheet metal ventilating system. He walked bravely up to the ventilator casing and tapped it with his night stick.

There was a scampering of tiny feet on the sheet metal. Devlin went to the other end of the building and tapped again. The "spook" ran back.

COP'S QUICK WIT GETS SUSPECTS AT GUN POINT

A chase after automobile thieves which began late at night in Allston and ended early today at the corner of State street and Atlantic avenue furnished excitement for several police divisions and resulted in the capture of the stolen car and the alleged thieves.

Fred B. Wheeler, of Allston, attending a meeting at the Allston Congregational Church, parked his car outside. During the meeting he heard his engines start. He ran out to see his car being backed into the street. He shouted: "Stop thief!"

Captain Bradley C. Mason of the Brighton police, who was in the church, also ran out. The thieves sped away.

Captain Mason commandeered a car and gave chase. At a nearby street corner Patrolman Dunn commandeered another car and sped after the thieves. Further on a motorcycle cop joined the chase.

The stolen car, its lights out, shot into the Fenway and was lost to view. A description of it was telephoned to headquarters and the chase abandoned.

Later Patrolman Andrew Adair, standing at the signal box at the corner of State street and Atlantic avenue, was taking a description of the stolen car from a sergeant at Station 2, when he saw the machine pass.

Immediately he dropped the telephone receiver and sprang to the running board of the speeding car. At the point of his revolver he took the two occupants into custody.

They were John McDougal of Charlestown and John J. Rafter of Allston. They were locked up on charges of larceny of the automobile, three bags and two coats, which were found in it.

In the Brighton Court today Judge Connelly held the men in $1,000 each for their appearance on Monday next.

PRESSMEN'S STRIKE HALTS R. R. FINANCE

New York, Sept. 21.—The ommission of financial advertising by the New York newspapers because of the pressmen's strike has resulted in a postponement of two large railroad equipment trust offerings, a $12,000,000 issue of Union Pacific and a $10,000,000 issue of the Great Northern railroad.

A Kuppenheimer Suit
On a Customer's Back
is our best advertisement

Folks sometimes compliment us on our newspaper advertising. But in our estimation, the best advertisement for this store is a man who has bought a Kuppenheimer Suit from us. He knows from personal contact what sort of a store this is. He has put our printed word to the test. He has found variety and value and service here such as he never found anywhere else in the city. He appreciates it, he talks about it, he tells his friends. And the Kuppenheimer Suit on his back is the strongest possible argument for the purchase of another when he needs it.

Always a leader in the designing field, The House of Kuppenheimer has developed some extremely clever models for this fall. There is an unusually generous variety of styles and fabrics. You'll enjoy looking them over and we'll enjoy having you. The prices are not the least attractive feature of these remarkable garments.

EX-NAVY GUNNER PLEADS FOR ITALIAN GIRL STOWAWAY

FORBIDDEN TO WED AT HOME, SHE FOLLOWS HIM HERE

By Universal Service.

New York, Sept. 21.—Secretary of Labor Davis will be called upon to act as a Solomon in an interesting case that follows the discovery of a girl stowaway aboard the freighter Clarence of the Mallory Line, recently in from Genoa, Italy.

The girl, Testina, Angelina Di Giovani, soon to become a mother, begged that she be permitted to marry George Philips Schweinfurth, of Brooklyn, former navy gunner and a member of the crew of the Clarence on its trip here.

BRIBES CREW.

Schweinfurth told of going to Italy to marry the girl, and of being refused authority to marry there.

A few lire distributed among the crew of the Clarence secured their silence when Testina was hidden away in Schweinfurth's clothes locker. He brought her food in his pockets from the seamen's mess.

Schweinfurth, after being under arrest for three days at Ellis Island, was released and is in Washington today to appeal to Secretary Davis.

"George has been loyal and true to me," the girl said.

"He came to Genoa after the war as a boatswain on a ship. He had served in the American navy and was in the submarine zone during the war. I met him in Genoa. We fell in love.

RETURNED FOR GIRL.

"He spent much time at my father's house. The American consul would not give him the proper papers for us to marry. He returned to America and came back to me with his birth certificate and his honorable discharge from the navy. Still they would not permit him to marry me.

"When they ordered him sent home on the Clarence as a destitute seaman I told him it was necessary we marry. He asked me to come with him as a stowaway, for he was sure we could be married here."

The immigration men have formally excluded the girl, but she and Schweinfurth declared they would fight the ruling even if they had to carry it to President Coolidge.

REGISTRATION AT HARVARD OPENS

Registration of students at Harvard starts today for members of the college and the Law School. The university will have its official opening on Monday.

In previous years, all the registration work was done in one day, the opening day of college. This necessitated long waiting lines and much turmoil. In order to do away with this, students can now register either today, Saturday or Monday. It is expected that the innovation will be a decided success.

YOUTHS HELD AS AUTO STEALERS

Inspectors Timothy Sheehan and Morris Murphy, of the auto department, returned from Kennebunk, Me., with Thomas Conrad, 17 years old, of Bartlett street, Roxbury, and Arthur Donnelly, also of Bartlett street, whom they arrested on the charge of auto stealing after a chase through three States. The youths are alleged to have stolen a car belonging to Herman Kranfuss, of No. 169 Washington street.

Former District Attorney of Middlesex County, has been released on bail of $10,000, pending his trial on charges of being implicated in a notorious "blackmail ring."

to pay impossible sums, or make humiliating reparations.

There is no reason for nations to quarrel if they would adopt the manner of a decent civilized individual. There is more pleasure in helping than in fighting. And the earth would provide more than enough for all, if nations would devote to science and the conquest of this globe one-quarter the amount they so gladly contribute to international killing.

THE EARTH is near a great change to come with air passenger traffic across the oceans. The ZR-3, built for us in Germany, is expected to fly across and reach here in November. Courageous men of the navy will experiment in ocean travel with Zeppelins that this government has wisely ordered. And air travel around the earth is not far away.

WHEN IT COMES man will have conquered space, in his little corner of it. Geography that children now learn, looking at the class room map, they will learn looking down from a flying machine in flight. Now you are above the ocean. Those black mountains are the Azores, once they were flaming volcanoes. Those little specks are water ships carrying heavy freight. Men used to travel on them, and even rely on the wind to blow them where they wanted to go.

Now you are approaching the shores of Europe. We shall pass over London soon and a few minutes later over Paris.

Thus the children will be taught one of these days. Who will provide the flying schools? A few years ago, the same question would have been asked the about public schools.

WHILE NEWSPAPERS were intermittent, or entirely missing in New York, because of a strike, one gave the excellent advice: "Since you cannot read newspapers, why not read faces?"

There is more to read in faces than in many books. The story of the world and its struggles is told, in a different way, in each face. Old faces and young, good faces and bad, self-controlled and dissipated, drunken and sober, powerful and weak, sorrow of old age neglected, the hope of youth, with everything to learn, and the depressing average dullness, showing how near we are to the Stone Age, how far we have to travel to reach civilization. An open book is in the face of man that religion tells us is made like that of its Creator, and that cold science tells us is built up at the opening of an alimentary canal seeking about for food and comfort, and thus developing "expression."

MOTOR COP IS KILLED IN CHASE

Fred Mercer, forty-two years old, of No. 70 Princeton street, Medford, of the Metropolitan police motorcycle squad, is dead from injuries received in collision with a heavy motor truck on Western avenue, Cambridge.

Mercer at the time of the collision was pursuing a speeding motorist who had gone to the left of the traffic sign at the junction of Massachusets avenue and Memorial drive, in Cambridge.

The disance from Massachusetts avenue to Western avenue is about a mile and Mercer had the machine traveling close to 65 miles an hour.

Just as he reached the corner of Western avenue the truck owned and operated by Arthur Cooper, of No. 17 Farrington street, Arlington, came into sight. Cooper failed to see the officer and drove his truck directly into the path of the speeding motorcycle.

Mercer made a desperate attempt to escape but the motorcycle had gained too great a momentum and crashed into the left side of the truck. The victim was thrown twenty feet, landing on a lawn across the street. The motorcycle continued on for fifty feet and crashed into a pole.

ALIEN LANGUAGE BANNED BY I. O. O. F.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 21.—After a prolonged fight in behalf of American lodges of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows with foreign-born members in their ranks, to permit such lodges to conduct their ritualistic work in the language of their countries, the advocates of this plan went down in defeat at the business session of the sovereign grand lodge.

It is estimated that at least 100 lodges of the order are affected by the action.

The grand lodge also turned down a proposal for the establishment of a tuberculosis sanitarium for members of the order.

SCRIPPS PLANS HONEYMOON HOME AT YALE

Detroit, Sept. 21.—Arrangements have been made whereby William John Scripps, youthful son of William E. Scripps, Detroit millionaire, will maintain a honeymoon establishment in New Haven, with his eighteen-year old bride, Virginia Stanley Scripps of Brookline, while he continues his studies at Yale. The arrangements were completed when a professor from Yale spent the day at the Scripps home investigating the scholastic qualifications of the publisher's son.

Mrs. W. J. Scripps.

Prior to that, young Mr. and Mrs. Scripps feared they would have to be parted until such time as Scripps was graduated from college.

Mrs. Scripps was to have returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Stanley, in Brookline, Mass., and her husband was to have visited her occasionally, as his courses at New Haven permitted.

The professor, who spent the day here is said to have agreed there would be no objection to young Scripps and his bride taking a house in New Haven, so long as his college work kept up to the mark.

The youthful husband will go East immediately, it is understood, and help his bride pick out a home in New Haven.

The young couple were married secretly in Canada several weeks ago.

COLLEGE BARN NOW WELLESLEY "DORM"

Wellesley College Barn is no more. The unique playhouse, whose rafters have rung in years past with the impassioned lines of amateur players and shaken with the vibration of dancing feet, has this year been remodelled for the more sober business of housing some thirty-five Wellesley students.

The first group of girls to live in the Barn will give it a new name.

LYNN MAN FINED $200 AFTER BIG LIQUOR RAID

A raid by the Lynn police today on the fruit store of Joseph Spina, No. 219 Broad street, yielded forty gallons of Belgian alcohol, forty gallons of moonshine, 600 gallons of grape wine and a large amount of wine in the process of fermentation.

The three-story building, in which the store was located, was searched from cellar to garret. Every floor yielded either alcoholic liquors, or paraphernalia used in the manufacture of such.

In Lynn Court Spina was fined $200 and a sentence of three months in jail, which was suspended, was imposed.

'ADAM' SUED BY 'EVE' FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. M. Sutter

Mrs. Margaret Sutter, the "Eve" of the "Adam and Eve" team which staged a "back to nature" stunt in the Maine woods a few years ago, has brought suit in the Suffolk County Court for divorce from her husband, Carl Adam, on grounds of [illegible].

Mr. and Mrs. Sutter were married December, 1916, and lived in various parts of Greater Boston until last December. Both are widely known in theatrical circles.

In her divorce papers, Mrs. Sutter charges familiarity on the part of Sutter with a woman she names as Annie Dix, a pretty waitress of Presque Isle, Me., on December 21, 1922, and on other occasions.

She promises to produce witnesses to substantiate her charges.

Sutter and his wife were lodgers in Mrs. Chase's lodging house at Presque Isle, where Miss Dix is employed, Mrs. Sutter charges. It was here that Sutter showered his affections upon the other woman, much to her own chagrin.

The Sutters separated and Mrs. Sutter returned to Boston and placed her case in the hands of an attorney. She now lives in the Back Bay.

BOOM FOR JOHNSON ON IN NEBRASKA

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 21.—A political group here favorable to the candidacy of Senator Hiram Johnson of California for the Republican nomination for President has launched a movement in his favor. John G. Maher, active for many years in Nebraska politics, was quoted as saying the movement has for its purpose an organization to place on the official ballot in the primaries in Nebraska the name of the California Senator for President.

QUIZ BABY IN CABARET MURDER; HE KNOWS 5 WORDS

2-YEAR-OLD WITNESS OF MOTHER'S SLAYING

Police Discard Revenge Motive in Death of Cafe Entertainer; $1000 Missing

By Universal Service.

Los Angeles, Sept. 21—Police here quizzed in vain two-year-old Robert Cass, hoping to gain from infantile lips the key which would unlock the mystery of the murder of the child's mother, Mrs. Ethel Cass, cafe entertainer

The [illegible] knows only five words

Despite [illegible] divorce two years ago James [illegible] of [illegible] was reported to have arrived here today to assist [illegible] in solving the mystery [illegible] the brutal slaying of his former wife

Mrs. [illegible] in a pool of the young woman's blood, was discovered by a neighbor at the young matron's apartment

MONEY IS MISSING.

The assigned motive of revenge to account for the crime was discarded when the police learned that $1,000 which the woman, a divorcee, had on her person shortly before the presumed time of the commission of the crime, could not be found.

But whoever murdered the cafe charmer, it appears quite certain the only person who was a witness to the deed must have been Baby Bobbie, who, weeping disconsolately from hunger, fright and loneliness, was found beside the cruelly maimed beautifully formed body.

In fact, it was the baby, crying tragically, that led to the discovery of the crime. This was when a neighbor, guided by the sobs, was led to the chamber

MOTIVE FOR CRIME.

Robbery was established as the crime motive, when a fellow employe of the slain girl told the police Mrs. Cass, preparatory to returning to her home in Buffalo, had her money—about $1,000, concealed upon her person But not a dollar of the money could be found in the apartment.

Added mystery characterized the case when Dr Wagner Los Angeles County autopsy surgeon reported it was an open question as to what, exactly, caused the woman's death

HUSBAND AIDS POLICE.

Meantime, James Cass the woman's divorced husband and a resident of [illegible] was on his way here to assist the police in any way he can

One police theory is that the woman was killed by a male companion in whose company she is known to have been shortly before the estimated time of the crime's commission This man is believed the same one who was seen driving away from the Toluca street address Tuesday morning

MISSING BOYS HIT TRAIL FOR WEST

Disgusted with their studies at West Roxbury High School, where they were freshmen students, as well as with the quiet life in Jamaica Plain and more anxious to see the West, Hugo Swirkal, of No 1 Parley Vale road and Edward Malone, of No. 7 Lakeville place, Jamaica Plain, have been missing from their homes since Tuesday.

Hugo Swirkal — Edward Malone

Both boys, who are fourteen years old, according to their parents, carefully arranged plans for their get away this week, taking with them $50 in money, several suits of clothes and other wearing apparel

Mrs. Caroline Swirkal, mother of one of the boys, is hysterical at her home as a result of her son's mysterious absence.

2000 ARRESTED AS BULGARIAN REVOLT FAILS

Vienna, Sept. 21.—While reports of a revolution in Bulgaria are untrue, says the Sofia correspondent of the Tageblatt, there really was a plot to overthrow the government and proclaim a Soviet republic.

However, the government accidentally heard of the movement and nipped it. In two days, the dispatch asserts, 2,000 persons have been arrested and sent to join the Stamboulisky ministers in the Sofia jail. Among the number were ten Russians. The plot was to have been sprung Thursday.

Athens, Sept. 21 (I.N.S.)—Many persons were killed and wounded in a clash between rebellious Bulgarian Reds and police at Sofia, according to a report received here by way of Salonika.

Bulgarian cavalry charged the crowds with drawn sabres. Some of the wounded are alleged to have died from stab wounds and beatings administered by police. Many arrests were made. A policemn was killed by a bomb explosion.

The Bulgarian government is taking drastic measures to quell the revolutionary movement.

Resistance by the rebellious reds is particularly strong in the Plevna district, in northern Bulgaria.

Interruption of communication and censorship imposed by the Bulgarian government is making it difficult to obtain information direct from Sofia. All messages show evidence of censorship.

Mistakes

Life is one mistake after another. Placing too much faith in a friend; marrying the wrong person; picking the wrong business; trying to escape the responsibilities of marriage; taking too much for granted; telling a "white" lie; committing a thoughtless error—these are things that can mar—or even ruin—your life. Robert Hichens, Gertrude Atherton, Gene Stratton-Porter, and others, go deep into the hearts of men and women and reveal their mistakes so that you can understand—and profit.

Trifling with marriage

Marriage is like dynamite; harmless if you don't trifle with it; deadly, if you do. Morgan Chester had to learn that—and he did when he decided to fall in love with one woman while he was married to another. His wife was modern in every way but one. And in that, she was primitive—savage, almost. She let him go as far as he wanted until—she took steps that will leave you breathless with excitement. Would you let your husband go if he loved another woman or would you do what Marjory did? Read "Modern Primitives" by Gertrude Atherton, author of "Black Oxen." Complete in October Good Housekeeping.

Can you escape the past?

Clive Baratrie had been accused of murder—and acquitted. "Life," he said, "means going on, forgetting things, forgetting people, loves, hatreds, passions, sorrows." And so he wanted to forget—and have the world forget. He talked of changing his name, of starting afresh where no one knew him. But was he right? Can you use life as a rag doll—and then forget it? Could you escape your own past? Could Clive Baratrie escape his? Would marriage help? Start Robert Hichens' great story "After the Verdict" in October Good Housekeeping.

The mistake of living to suit your friends

You want to live less extravagantly. But you can't change. "What," you ask yourself, "will people say?" You want to give up a dozen needless activities into which your friends have led you. "But," you inquire, "what will people say?" Joyce Gathway made the mistake of living to please her friends, to satisfy her set. Life has been a mixture of imitation and compromise. Then scandal, pitilessly and brutally, came into her life—and friends went out of it. Her name, her reputation, her honor were juggled with as if they were toys. Suddenly, she came to a decision—the decision to live her own life and make it after her own pattern. How she did it is told dramatically by Coningsby Dawson in his powerful story "The Coast of Folly" in October Good Housekeeping.

Are you making these mistakes?

Are you confusing old age with uselessness? Read Carrie Chapman Catt, America's greatest living woman in the field of politics, on the subject of woman's golden age. Are you making the mistake of digging your grave with your teeth? If you have diabetes—or are headed for it by virtue of an unwise diet, read "Insulin, what it will and will not do." Are you making the mistake of overdecorating your home? Read "Putting Charm and Comfort into the Small Apartment." Are you going to mistake the ephemeral for the authentic fall fashions? The Paris openings, fully described and illustrated, show you the latest accepted modes. Is it costing you too much to live? Good Housekeeping's service departments will save you 10% or more of your expenses. All this—and more—in the 284-page October Good Housekeeping.

The Paris Openings

What is the mode? The Paris openings have revealed it definitely. October Good Housekeeping contains a wide selection of the best models from Germaine, Molyneux, Jean Patou, Georgette, Premet and others. Suits, coats, hats, evening frocks and wraps, fur coats—all are shown. In addition the National Shopping Service showing the newest things that you can buy in your own town; news of the New York Shops; a dressmaking lesson showing how to remodel clothes, and Anne Orr's needlework page. All in October Good Housekeeping.

Furnishings and Decorations

Buy Your Tires from a Firestone DEALER

At the Latest Prices—The Lowest in History

You will find the Firestone Dealer one of the stable business men of your community. He offers a clean, fresh stock, backed by a well organized service. He wants you as a permanent customer.

That is the reason he sells Firestone tires. He knows and has plenty of proof that they are the best tires on the market. He can give you the greatest value and thereby retain your trade for years.

Every day you find new proof of this unequalled value. On the 15th of this month, Firestone Tires set two new dirt track records at Syracuse when Tommy Milton slid around four turns at every mile and covered the 100 miles in 75 minutes, 33 hundredths seconds. He also established a new world's record for one mile by covering it in 42 and 28 hundredths seconds. The next four cars to finish were also equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords. Each one of them went the entire race without a stop. This and every other important race this year was won on Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords and Steam-Welded Tubes. Such performance gives you conclusive proof of their strength and durability.

Not only do race drivers use Firestone Tires as protection to their lives and the surest way to victory, but the largest tire buyers in the world insist on and buy Firestone Tires for economy and service. These buyers include the leading car manufacturers, the biggest commercial car operators and the taxicab and motorbus operators. 57,639,714 tire miles were sold to taxicab and motorbus operators in the month of August.

Think this over. You cannot afford to accept anything less than Firestone service and economy. You can buy this service and economy from any of the dealers listed below.

SECRET SMOKING LAID TO "LITTLE ANGELS IN PANTS" AT SMITH

HYPOCRISY RAPPED BY ACCUSER

Mme. Naucaze's Inn Had Been Banned to Students for Puffing in Public

Northampton, Sept. 21.—With [illegible] satire and wit, Madame A. de Naucaze, proprietress of the Rose Tree Inn, Northampton, where for fifteen years she was closely associated with the college folk of the city, writes her farewell note to the city and to Smith College.

Recently her tea room, for years the rendezvous of college students and faculty, was closed to the undergraduate body at Smith by action of the Student Council because of cigarette smoking by the girls.

"I am leaving Northampton," writes Mme. de Naucaze, "after having been accused and weighed by the scales of [illegible] and condemned [illegible] of prudish damsels who did [illegible] me to defend my [illegible] back [illegible]

"In parting with the Rose Tree I am glad to think [illegible] will not cease to exist and that it will [illegible] stronger than ever, without a thorn.

"You will find her charming, much younger than I am. You see I was born when crinolines were in fashion. I have even wore one. Girls, they are abominable!

"To my friends I now say farewell, and [illegible] happiness and prosperity. [illegible] have never [illegible] and whom I don't know [illegible] made me a target for the unkind arrow of their tongue [illegible] do it to me or to anyone, for it is only the hallmark of a common mind. COPS TO ASK FOR $6 A DAY MINIMUM

The Massachusetts Police Association will be asked to go on record in favor of a $6 a day minimum wage for patrolmen, with superiors in proportion, by the Cambridge delegation elected to represent the University city officers at the annual State convention to be held in Lynn September 26 and 27. The delegates were so instructed by unanimous vote.

WILLS MATCHED FOR BOUT ON SEPT. 27

New York, Sept. 21.—Harry Wills, colored heavyweight title contender, has been matched to fight Homer Smith of Kalamazoo, Mich., in a 10-round contest at the Queensboro Stadium on Sept. 27. The bout will mark Wills' first ring appearance in a year. Smith gained prominence by staying the limit of a 10-round match with Luis Angel Firpo on August 3, at Omaha, Neb.

Harry Wills

Smith was the first boxer to stay the limit with Firpo since the Argentine [illegible] to pugilistic [illegible] this country.

The M[illegible]an fighter was knocked down almost at will by the South American, but managed to weather the st[illegible] of blows until the last bell [illegible] was staged during Firpo's [illegible] Summer exhibition tour.

Two weeks after the Smith bout, Joe Downey of Cincinnati also succeeded in going the limit of 10 rounds with Firpo at Indianapolis [illegible]

Woolen Sets New 1923 Low, But Rallies on Denial Dividend Cut Is Near

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Have [illegible] taken note of the enthusiastic reception accorded the announcement [illegible] company that it has mapped out a plan for guaranteeing workers a minimum of 48 weeks' employment a year?

Does not this [illegible] contain an excellent suggestion for other corporations?

"How could we pledge 48 weeks' full-time employment when we can't possibly foretell how good or how bad business is going to be during the course of any year?" Employers may be disposed to reply the moment the idea is suggested. But fuller consideration should tend to modify this unhesitating attitude.

Is it not the fact that most plants are kept running an average of 48 weeks [illegible] not [illegible] by workers [illegible] and [illegible] list [illegible] weeks or more each year—need not be guaranteed all workers immediately some plan is instituted.

Is it not true that in practically all organizations there are a large number of employes who are kept [illegible] Little financial risk would be involved in establishing a guarantee [illegible]

By drawing up terms which would encourage workers to establish a record entitling them to [illegible] to the guarantee [illegible] wouldn't a great deal be done [illegible] and [illegible] honest, steady, faithful service?

* * *

Many public utility and other corporations [illegible] to men who have [illegible]

[illegible] a fixed rate of pay for [illegible] be not prove an [illegible] ers to stay at their [illegible] form their duties acceptably?

Of course, any such plan would have to be most carefully prepared. But the results calculated to be [illegible] warrant [illegible] every progressive executive and [illegible] America.

After all, there is nothing dearer the heart of the breadwinner of a family than knowing that he [illegible]

PRICES MIXED IN BOSTON MARKET

Prices were mixed in today's transactions on the Boston Stock Exchange, with changes very nearly evenly divided.

Amoskeag and Old Colony sold 1½ points lower, while there were point gains for Eastern Steamship and Producers & Refiners.

Boston Elevated, Copper Range, Warren Bros. 1st preferred, Quincy, Swift & Co., Swift International and Mohawk all sold fractions higher.

American Telephone, Calumet & Hecla, Greenfield Tap, Eastern Manufacturing, Wolverine, National Leather, Mississippi Power and Pacific Mills were all slightly shaded.

United Shoe and Ventura Oil sold unchanged.

A heavy tonnage of electrolytic copper sold in New York at 13¼ cents a pound, delivered. This is a new low price for 1923 and represents a shrinkage of 4¼ cents a pound from the high of 17½ cents, touched last March.

The larger producers, however, are not following the market down, as they feel there is nothing to be gained by cutting prices. Consumers are holding aloof, believing that the huge production of copper from American refineries cannot help but keep the price of the metal down.

QUOTATIONS REACT IN COTTON FUTURES

New York, Sept. 21.—Futures were reactionary in the cotton market today with prices declining from 5 to 28 points. Easier Liverpool cables induced profit taking, especially in the distant deliveries. October sold at 29.65 off 5, December at 29.20 off 15, January at 28.60 off 20, March at 28.50 off 28 and May 28.45, off 22.

Get Expert Advice Before Trading in Stocks or Bonds

Before you buy or sell stocks or bonds you ought to get expert advice. You also need such information from time to time, as market conditions change, regarding your list of holdings.

The stock market is full of grade crossings, and it is your duty to "Stop, Look and Listen."

You need unprejudiced counsel to help you determine what course to take. Such advice is yours for the asking. Address inquiries to Frank H. Meloon, Financial Editor of the Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass., enclosing stamped and self-addressed envelope for reply.

TRAVEL BRIEFS—NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL

[illegible] heard the [illegible] at express [illegible] River [illegible] is not [illegible] of the most famous but [illegible] oldest regular [illegible] operation in the country [illegible].

On [illegible] 1847 at [illegible] Fall River Line [illegible] express pulled out of the [illegible] corner of South and Kneeland streets, Boston, on its first run to Fall River and it [illegible] practically the same [illegible] a period of [illegible].

On [illegible] 1898 the trains of the Providence division entered [illegible] South Station in Boston, and the boat train has left there ever since.

The equipment of the Fall River Line steamboat express has always been the finest that money could buy and in the days when engines were named, and covered with polished brass, the best of all were always used to haul the famous boat train.

In the 60's Joseph Holmes, a son of President Holmes of the Old Colony, while on a trip to England, became impressed with the idea of putting an English coach on the Fall River Line boat train. This was approved by President Holmes, and two coaches were built at the Old Colony Shops from English design. They were, of course, a great novelty and proved a paying advertisement for a number of years. They were later succeeded by parlor cars, the Old Colony having their own, called the "Plum" and "Puritan," ran on the boat train for many years. Later when Pullman cars were put in service the "Violet" and "Pansy" were assigned to this run.

The boat train was among the first in the country to have the Creamer hand brake (the first form of automatic brake) the Miller platform and the Westinghouse air brake.

The boat train of today is solid steel. It is equipped with the very latest type of Westinghouse high speed brakes and with vestibuled parlor car and coaches electrically lighted. The big steel coaches seat eighty eight passengers each, and on the body of the car the words "Fall River Line" add much to their handsome appearance besides giving a distinct individuality to the train.

WILL VISIT JAPAN'S SACRED ISLAND

The sacred island of Miyajima in the Inland Sea of Japan will be visited by American world cruise travelers for the first time in the history of world cruising when the five hundred passengers on the new S. S. "Franconia" arrive off the island next January on their way around the world.

Miyajima is one of the three great sights of Japan. At high tide both the island and the giant red torii standing before the shrine of Itsukushima seem to be floating upon the water.

The population of this sacred island are mostly the picturesque blue-clad fisher folks, the image carvers and the toy vendors. Travelers will note the total absence of all types of vehicles, as this spot of sylvan beauty is unmarred by passing autos, rikshas and sedan chairs. This is one of the many interesting places which will be visited on the annual American Express cruise around the world. The S. S. "Franconia" will start on the cruise November 15 from New York City and will call at San Francisco Dec. 2nd and pick up the travelers from the Pacific coast.

CUNARD PADDLEWHEELER MADE 14 KNOTS

The paddlewheel ocean liners of sixty years ago were not slow, as is generally supposed. The "Scotia" of the Cunard Line had a record of 14 knots, the highest speed ever attained by a paddlewheel steamer. Many twin-screw liners of today do not average more than sixteen knots.

HARDING'S MESSAGE FROM YELLOWSTONE

With the announcement of a record season for travel through Yellowstone Park, comes an appeal from the Northern Pacific Railway that the American people remember the message delivered by President Harding upon leaving the Park after his tour of it this Summer.

In his speech at the Gardiner Gateway on July 2nd the President said: "The park is a wonderful place. It is a great possession for the United States of America. I have been marvelling at our experiences of the last two days. During that time, visiting as we were, we have seen literally a fine cross section of the citizenship of our land. I believe that during my brief sojourn in the park I have greeted personally travelers from every State in the American Union as well as from England, Canada and Cuba. Manifestly, all the country is beginning to turn its face toward Yellowstone National Park, and I am glad of it, for there is nothing more helpful, nothing more uplifting, nothing that gives one a greater realization of the wonders of creation than a visit to that great national institution."

"Shortly after voicing his tribute to Yellowstone, President Harding announced his hope that the Park would be enlarged by the addition to it of wild tracts of mountain and forest country in the Teton Range, adjacent to the Park," says A. H. Smith, passenger traffic manager of the Northern Pacific Railway.

"It is to be hoped that this earnest desire of the late President may eventually lead to a greater Yellowstone. If his plan is carried out, the American people will owe him one more debt of gratitude, for the region to which the President referred is one of the grandest reaches of wild mountain and forest country offered by the American Rockies."

Women Fight Higher Fares

Increase of Rates on the Three New England Railroads to Make Up Loss Caused by Private Management

The three New England railroads propose to increase their commutation tickets 20 per cent. This is another of those ceaseless increases of fare to make up for the dissipation and losses of private management under the dictation of Wall Street. It is only one more example of the passing down upon the shoulders of the people the cost of high finance in our railroads.

The women are bestirring themselves against the proposal, and Mrs. Susan W. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Charles I. Quirk, chairman of the Republican Ward Committee of Roxbury, are among those who have first indicated their opposition and their intention to organize the women of the State in opposition to the attempt

This railroad increase is only another symptom of the general railroad question, and we hope that when the women approach it, they will approach it intelligently with a view to working out a fundamental solution. We hope that they will not repeat the mistakes of the men who are always locking their barn doors after their horses are stolen who are always trying to patch up an old, worn-out instrument; who are always trying to cure a symptom instead of eradicating the cause; who have for 25 years been muddling along with an increasing charge for coal and a decreasing efficiency in coal operation, and yet never get any nearer a solution of this burdensome addition to our cost of living

The men who are now in control of the Boston & Maine and the New Haven railroads—President Hustis and President Pierce—and their coadjutors are not responsible for the present condition. It is not the men we must blame. It is the situation. We must not even blame Wall Street, though predatory bankers of Wall Street have brought the N. E. railroads to their knees, bankrupt and trembling with weakness.

That which is to blame is the situation of a great public utility—the greatest of all—RUN by private individuals for private profits, but OWNED by a vast number of people of ordinary means and controlled by those who have no stake in the property, but are using it as old Morgan used to use the old insurance companies—as instruments for speculation.

We hope that the women will help the men to stop this further increase in passenger fares, and we hope that they will do a still more important thing—study the question and show our men how to deal with a great public question according to economic, political and social principles and to deal with it fundamentally!

If they do they will reach the inevitable conclusion that the Government must take and run our railroads.

Go Wax Your Mustache

What Judge Would Say That?

Copyright, 1923, Star Co

A young police court judge in New Jersey advises an indignant wife whose husband spends money and time on another young woman with bobbed hair, "Go and have YOUR hair bobbed. Then perhaps you will again regain your husband's affections."

If an indignant husband had appeared, complaining that a young man in knickerbockers with waxed mustache was winning his wife's affections, would the judge have said to him, "Go and wax YOUR mustache, and bob your trousers at the knees, then perhaps you can get your wife back."

Women are advised to flatter their husbands, dress to please them, etc., because it is thoroughly understood that the average man still looks upon a woman about as the red Indian looks upon a squaw.

That needs to be changed. It WILL change when women realize their importance and value. Women have spoiled men ever since Eve gave Adam a bite instead of eating it all herself. He blamed HER, you'll notice

Monument to Alice Stone

There is under consideration the establishment of a monument in memory of Alice Stone, the great leader in the movement for the emancipation of women.

We know of no more appropriate recognition of the services of the dead than for women to insist that a public memorial shall be established for Alice Stone—that little lady who in the days when her voice for women's rights was only a small voice crying in the wilderness—never faltered, never lost her temper, never lost her faith, never lost—while she lived—an increasing influence for her cause

She died without seeing its consummation, but her daughter, Alice Stone Blackwell, still lives and carries on the spirit of her mother's love of liberty into other causes where liberty is still denied

Such was the atavism of little, modest Alice Stone

Goodbye $2 Bill

Superstition Condemns You

[illegible]

The United States government seriously considers abandoning the $2 bill because it is unpopular. The unpopularity is based on the belief that the $2 bill is "unlucky." That superstition is based, in turn, on the fact that the $2 bill is quite often given in mistake for a $1 bill

It is easier to stop the two-dollar bill than to kill superstition. If that bill is to be stopped it might well be replaced by the three-cent piece and the two-cent piece, both of which were plentiful when Secretary Mellon was a little boy. To prevent confusion the three-cent piece of nickel might have flat edges, an octagon shap[illegible]

B. U. Deserving of Aid

We earnestly hope that Boston University will succeed in raising the million dollars which its authorities say must be raised to keep up the standards of the University.

For, as a college which has been without much renown beyond our locality, it has contributed a great deal to the solid education of this community. It has helped to maintain the truth of Boston's reputation for culture. It has been practical; it has handled practical students who went there for education and not for its reputation or for its side-lines, or for the pleasures of a university life.

IF IN STYLE HIRE A DOG

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Renting a dog for the afternoon to match [illegible] costume has been taken up in a [illegible] sort of way [illegible] women of Chicago's fashionable North Side.

So popular has the practice become that dog renting agencies begin to list reservations early in the morning.

"When I wear an afternoon dress," said Miss Frances Eu[illegible], "and a big hat with fur, I ring up monsieur the dog renter and I reserve a dark brown chow for the day. If I wear a white suit with a Russian short coat and high-heeled slippers that make me appear tall, it's to be a wolfhound. For dark tweeds and [illegible], an Airedale is the thing."

From the Chaperone

Editor Boston American:

Just a word from a chaperone who enjoyed every minute from the time she left Boston until she returned from the Atlantic City pageant. The spirit of kindness and hospitality was wonderful. From the time we arrived in Atlantic City until my daughter, Margaret (Miss Boston), and I returned home was continuous delight.

Nothing was done in a half-hearted way. Every courtesy was extended to us and the Chalfonte-Haddon Hotel certainly went over the top." When we arrived we were told that anything we wanted we would merely have to ask for and we would obtain it. We certainly appreciated the kindness and friendliness shown us. We will never forget it.

Just a word of advice for the "Miss Boston" of 1924—look your prettiest—for even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of the girls at the pageant. And to the chaperon—do not think you can keep up with "Miss Boston" for that will be impossible. I thought I was equal to the task but it was beyond me to follow my daughter. How she crowded so much into such a short time is beyond me.

The pageant was gorgeous. The Boston American has done some wonderful things, but sending a "Miss Boston" and chaperone with all expenses paid, to the pageant, is one of the finest things it ever did. I wish to publicly thank the Boston American for the wonderful time it gave my daughter and me.

(Signed)
MRS SARAH BLACK.

Children Need Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

You have been very ki[illegible] in the past, and I [illegible] will not forsake me [illegible] Winter is coming. My children are without warm clothing, although the three elder are more in need than the others. The oldest boy is nine and needs a warm overcoat badly or a sweater, as he has neither. The others are seven, six, four, two and one month. All I get for our support is $12 a week.

For Wives of Soldiers

Editor Helping Hand:

In reading the American I saw two app[illegible] ex-service [illegible] "A Hero's Wife" and Mrs. R. G. I will say that I have an overcoat for Mrs. R. G. for h[illegible] Hosp[illegible] I have some h[illegible] shirts for [illegible] although [illegible] condition. I am very sorry to read of the ex-service men that are in need, and I think if the bonus were paid to the boys, they would use it to a good advantage. I am an ex-service man myself, having served with the First Division of the regulars and was gassed myself.

EX-BUDDY.

Thank you. You have been sent the two addresses you request. We know of lots of ex-service men with families who certainly could use a bonus to good advantage.

For a Shut-in

Editor Helping Hand:

I have some magazines I would be glad to give to A. F. D., the lady who has been shut in for sixteen years. I also have a pair of women's shoes, size 7½, for anyone who could use them.

M. H.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of A. F. D., and we will mail [illegible] of shoes for replies

Children Need Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a mother with two children, a boy ten and a girl six. I wonder if some kind reader could help me. I need clothes badly for them, as they haven't any Winter coats or shoes, and for myself, size 38. My husband is in poor health and it takes every cent I can earn to live and pay rent.

MRS H. McK.

Aged Couple in Need

Editor Helping Hand:

I am an old lady seventy-six and my husband is seventy-eight, and has been an invalid for six years. We are both very much in need of clothes. I wear anything over size 40 and he wears size 38. I have no one to help me and all we have to live on is a small sum from the State.

MRS J J M

Sends Long List

Editor Helping Hand:

I am obliged to move in thirty days and am going to store my furniture and go to Detroit. I have a lot of clothes, women's and children's, which I do not want to take, and I thought you might have some worthy person.

MRS. B

Thank you. We did not have room to print the list. You have been sent the address of Mrs A. E. M.

One Dollar for Aged Couple

Editor Helping Hand:

Enclosed find one dollar to be given the aged couple signed M. E. M. I am also enclosing clippings for which I would like the addresses. Many thanks for the other addresses. Will try to help them some.

MRS I T P

Many thanks. The one dollar has been forwarded to M. E. M., and you have been sent their address and the address of Mrs. F. J., which you request

WHAT DO THE LITTLE BIRDS SAY ABOUT REPARATIONS?

By Herbert Kaufman

IF securities improve, sterling rises, and the franc takes a high hurdle, you may believe that Poincare and Baldwin have signed a truce and really mean to co-operate in the Ruhr.

Finance keeps a flock of "little-birds-that-tell" in every chancellery.

Except where mad-men shoot calculations, Border Commissions and Grand Dukes to pieces, the shadow of coming events falls well in advance upon bourse and bank vault.

Money, with a sharper ear than wireless, is seldom caught unawares.

Take critical foreign news with a decided pinch of salt unless foreign exchange and market movements corroborate the cables.

"The Time Has Come," the Walrus Said

Sooner or later the impossible situation between the allies and Germany must be somehow ended. Mutual balance sheets long ago demonstrated the futility of present coercive policies. Obstinacy and politics alone protracted French occupation. A fire-eating Cabinet, pressed by national discontent, promised too much and dared not risk replacement by acknowledging the errors of its ways.

Now that a face has been partially saved by twisting the lion's tail and smashing most of the china in the Teuton's shop, chanticleer may be inclined to quit the cockpit.

In which case young Mr. Mussolini is to be credited with services rendered. Adriatic snarls helped in no small degree to bring the rest of Europe to its very tardy senses.

Besides, there are certain outstanding obligations whose payment just now would be extremely inconvenient to Paris

We'll learn within a few hours how extensively the matter of war loans was argued at the conference. Should rumors of Anglo-French concord be substantiated, His Majesty's strong position as creditor weighed heavily in determinations.

If So, John Bull's the Goat

All signs point to Berlin's eagerness to accept any reasonable proposition. Whoever has followed the recent developments can anticipate the main features of whatever agreement exists.

London for the sake of prosperity at home and abroad, assumes part of the Reich's burden by cancelling an equivalent amount of French notes.

Stresemann's government will engage to pledge the mobilization of private property behind reparations guarantees. In other words, a mortgage will be pasted upon the physical assets of the Fatherland.

Coal deliveries and the reconstruction of devasted districts will be resumed, provided French labor doesn't play dog in the manger.

Custom receipts, various taxes and the partial or entire control of railroads will pass to the entente, which in turn will underwrite an emergency loan and assist in reforming the currency.

Passive resistance will be abandoned, but complete withdrawal from the Rhine territory won't occur before a percentage of pledges are fulfilled.

Depend upon it, all hands around except England got more than expected and less than demanded

The goat horns, for once, fall to John Bull.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON "ACCELERATION"

By Garrett P. Serviss

A READER in Texas is puzzled over the meaning of "acceleration" as used by me in an article on the cause of the double tide raised by the moon—one on the near and the other on the far side of the earth. I said that a study of the principle of acceleration would help to make clear the statement that the globe of the earth tends to move toward the moon under the pull of gravitation, and yet does not actually get nearer to it.

Acceleration means either a change of the velocity of motion or a change of its direction. The earth and the moon are both accelerated in revolving around their common centre of gravity because the direction of the motion of each is continually changing from a straight to a curved line, although their mean speed remains always the same. It is in this sense that I used the word in writing of the tides.

The force that keeps the earth revolving around the sun is an acceleration caused by the sun's attraction, just as the force that keeps the moon revolving around the earth is an acceleration caused by the earth's attraction. In return, the moon's attraction accelerates the earth and causes it to revolve around a point inside its own globe, which, as I have shown in a preceding article, is the location of the common centre of gravity between earth and moon.

To show how a body moving in an orbit around the earth can be continually falling and not yet approaching, imagine a cannon placed on an elevation of 16 feet and let the earth be perfectly smooth and round. Also eliminate the atmosphere.

First give the ball a horizontal speed of one mile per second. It will fall 16 feet in that second. But the earth rounds off eight inches in one mile so that after going one mile the ball will still be 8 inches above the ground. Increase its speed to two miles per second. Again it falls 16 feet in the second, but in two miles the earth rounds off 32 inches, so that the ball will now be 32 inches above the ground. If the ball goes three miles in the second it will still fall only 16 feet, but the earth will have rounded off 72 inches, or 6 feet, and if we increase the balls' speed to 4.9 miles per second the earth's rounding off will be 16 feet, just counterbalancing the ball's fall, so that, at that speed, it could go round and round the earth like a moon, always accelerated toward the earth's centre, but never touching its surface. This is because the earth's rounding off, like the ball's fall, varies as the square of the distance.

THREE-MINUTE TRIPS

NATION FREE OF DEBT

By Temple Manning

FAR off in the South Pacific lies a group of islands known as the Tonga, or Friendly Islands.

There all is peace and harmony. The traveler is struck by the prosperity and general air of well-being which pervades these islands that live up to their name.

Although they are under the protection of Great Britain—and accept her help in the matter of postoffices and official matters of state—the subjects of this little country are absolutely loyal to their native queen.

This progressive queen has seen to it that her little kingdom can boast of well-made roads and that no special tax is required for their maintenance

For taxation in the Friendly Islands is of a very unusual character, as every man starts paying taxes early in his youth.

As a result of this even scale of taxation, the citizens prosper and the country prospers. In fact, prosperity is so general on this group of islands that their handsome queen can declare that her country enjoys a unique distinction—that of being the only country in the world free from a national debt.

Why Girl Swimming Champions Outclass Their Sister Champions in Beauty

Now the Findings of a Veteran Trainer of America's Champion Mermaids Prove That Fat Girls Really Do Reduce, While Thin Ones Build Up by Daily Swimming.

"Sparkle and Dash and Warmth of Bubbling Youth," Wrote a Famous Woman Author of America's Girl Swimmers. Here's a Group at Coney Island.

Below: Two Society Beauties of Newport Who Take Their "Middle Distance "Paddle" Every Day, the Misses Eve Mallett and Jeannette Ball.

By L. de B. HANDLEY,

Amateur coach to the champion team of the Women's Swimming Association, of New York.

DR. TAIT McKENZIE, eminent physiologist of the University of Pennsylvania, recently exploded a bomb in the field of sport by declaring that competitive athletics are robbing the American woman of a good figure; making her flat-chested, heavy muscled, ungainly of build; depriving her of much of her feminine physical charm.

The noted professor may be right, in so far as most branches of athletics are concerned. Emphatically he is wrong if he includes water sports in the category of the figure-robbing pursuits. Without fear of authoritative contradiction it may be asserted that competitive swimming is woman's best means of attaining physical perfection.

Bobby Kane, a Steeplechase Mermaid, Who Combines Symmetry with Natatorial Achievement.

There is no form of exercise which develops the human body so gracefully and symmetrically as does swimming. When a modern stroke—any type of crawl—is used correctly the action virtually is effortless, yet the entire muscular system is brought into play without the least strain, so that constant practice results in the upbuilding of an admirably proportioned figure, showing the smoothly rounded contour so pleasing to woman. The pectoral regions assume their full share of the exercise and the chest is developed firmly and thoroughly. The position held in the water, with the body a trifle arched from head to feet, leads to erect carriage and ease of deportment at all times. The functional organs are strengthened and the circulation activated, thus clearing the blood of impurities and making the complexion clean and bright.

Moreover, regular swimming will keep the devotee at the standard weight called for by structural conformation of frame. It tends always to create muscle and tissue in the unduly lean, to work off the excess flesh in the stout. This is very noticeable when one supervises the training of a number of girl contestants, for some lose weight steadily, others gain it, until each rounds into condition, when the scales show no marked change, week in, week out.

The enviable effects of competitive activities on participating mermaids show eloquently in the home and foreign champions of past and present. Taken by and large one hardly would hope to find a group of girls and young women showing equally graceful, well proportioned, thoroughly feminine builds. Often the comment has been made that the fair champions of swimming outclass in pulchritude their sister champions in any other branch of sport. And this is the more remarkable, the more indicative of the value of swimming, in that quite a number of the attractive stars were frail and ill-favored physically in childhood, before taking to natation. It was the training in watermanship that made them healthy, good-looking and vigorous, in some cases even correcting abnormalities and defects amounting to deformities.

Last Summer there was held at Brighton Beach an international three-and-one-half-mile race for women which proved the great aquatic event of the season, and well-known press representatives from all over the country were sent to "cover" it. Among them was a noted woman author who never had seen an important contest for mermaids and her impressions as an outsider are particularly interesting. She wrote in part:

"Would that all mothers of fine sons and daughters could have been on the beach at Brighton to see those splendid young bodies which had covered the three-and-one-half-mile course emerge from the surf.

"Fifty-two of them, straight, slim, deep of chest, gracefully curved, delicately tanned.

"And no weariness of limb, no dullness of eye. Sparkle and dash and warmth of bubbling youth, proud in accomplishment, thrilled by the spirit of clean contest.

"Every contestant in the international swimming event—most of them in the early teens—is a perfect physical specimen. They radiate health. When they landed after the race the fifty-two presented a picture to drive a maker of cosmetics into deepest doldrums. Blush rose and cherry ripe and clear olive. Magic colors from nature's palette.

"It is significant of these young athletes that their conversations, which mirror their minds, are as sound and wholesome as their bodies.

"If swimming can build the sort of American girls who competed in the international race, then by all means let us prevail on all our girls to swim."

This is not a devotee extolling the merits of her favorite sport, bear in mind, but a mere onlooker grown enthusiastic at an unfamiliar sight which stirred her blood.

It has been my interesting experience to serve as volunteer coach to the Women's Swimming Association of New York ever since the organization was launched, and I have marveled at the veritable miracles in physical reconstruction I have witnessed time and again. It is amazing to note how swiftly girls who are weakly gain strength, healthy ones improve, and all build up physically and benefit in general appearance.

One thing needs be said, though. Speed swimming is not the kind of swimming that develops the body most advantageously; one must make a practice of covering middle distance courses, anywhere from 500 to 1,000 yards, at moderate pace. This may seem contradictory to the statements made in regard to the advisability of competition, but it is not. Races come infrequently, training is done steadily. If the contestant trains always at moderate pace the speed swimming indulged in while competing will be a decidedly small portion of aquatic activities. The constructive work is done at practice.

"Gracefully Curved, Delicately Tanned." a Swimming Beauty of Whitley Park, Near Los Angeles.

Many champion girl swimmers have been called beautiful. Perhaps their features do not conform with the artist's classic conception of feminine beauty, but they are beautiful in the possession of those rare physical characteristics described by the woman author quoted above: "Splendidly formed bodies, sparkle and dash of bubbling youth, complexions from nature's magic palette." And these characteristics, let it be mentioned, are not the monopoly of champions. Take the fair aquatic contestants as a class and you will ascertain that those gifted with them are the rule, rather than the exception.

But glance over the list of America's present water queens and note the comeliness and remarkable development, strikingly feminine, of the great majority. Gertrude Ederle, Aileen Riggin, Helen Wainwright, Adelaide Lambert, Doris O'Mara, Elizabeth Becker, Ruth Thomas, Frances Taylor, Helen Condon, Sybil Bauer, Minnie De Vry, Eleanor Coleman, Marie Curtis, Viola Hartman, Hilda Curtis, Dorothy Becker Lineer, Vivian Bernardi—these are among the foremost stars in their respective parts of the country, title-holders who have been conspicuously in the public eye of late. You will go a long way to discover lassies so generously endowed physically, as fine specimen of glorious girlhood and young womanhood.

Obviously it is within the scope of every member of the gentle sex to improve herself by swimming and, if not to make herself actually beautiful, at least to gain the attractiveness vouchsafed by a good figure and the glow of buoyant good health.

The Swimming Form Divine, as Exemplified in the Trim Person of Miss Helen Condon of Omaha, 17-Year-Old Swimming Champion. (Inset) Eleanor Coleman, of Milwaukee, Who Holds the World's Record for the 100-Yard Breast Stroke.

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

A LOT of ministers are finding business so slow that one of them is trying to encourage marriages by offering to do the proposing for the man.

ALL you've got to do is give him the address of your sweetheart and he'll ask her to marry you.

IF she refuses him then you aren't out anything except his time.

YOU can get away with murder after you're married because she can't hold you to anything he promises her.

IF the first girl he asks won't marry you, he'll keep on trying until he finds one who will.

HE won't give up until he's tried every dame in the city directory.

IF you're sincere, he'll even go through the telephone book.

JUST think what it would cost you to do this over a nickel book.

BUT with him he can call your sweetheart up and reverse the charges.

HUNDREDS of girls are anxious to get married, only they have no telephone.

YOU could call on them in person but the chances are they owe so much money they're afraid to answer the doorbell.

IF you write, always do it around the fifteenth. Nobody ever reads any mail they get on the first of the month.

IT'S best to let a minister do the proposing for you because then he'll take a personal interest in your divorce.

WITH a minister working for you, it isn't any effort to get married. All you need is the inclination and a bank roll.

ONCE-OVERS

(Copyright, 1923, by International Feature Service, Inc.)

PASS ALONG THE COMPLIMENTS YOU HEAR.

If you have heard anything uncomplimentary of a friend or an acquaintance why repeat it to the person unless by telling it you can see that benefit may result?

Is it that you are so anxious to tell disagreeable things rather than to speak about the pleasant ones?

None is too big to enjoy favorable comments about themselves.

This is just a human trait—you like it yourself.

You know by experience that you have never forgotten certain things that have been said about you and they still hurt.

The pain is there and you would be happier if you had not heard them.

Instead of committing the same offense, try to remember and repeat all the pleasing things you have heard, about and to,—others.

You will get a lot of enjoyment out of telling them and the other person will be made happy also.

Begin today to get compliments for your friends and remember to pass them along.
